Dear Mr. Weisberg:

I will not repeat your familiar salutation
since we have not met.

I will not attempt to respond to your harangue
since it obviously would not be of any value.

Since, on the basis of your letter, you have not made any money from your books, that leaves
only two other catagories.

Any competent psychiatrist reading your hysterical letter would undoubtedly have a judgment on this matter.

Sincerely yours,

A handwritten signature in dark ink, appearing to read "Pierre Salinger", with a long, sweeping horizontal line extending to the right.
